

BARWON COAST VOLUNTEERS

Do make a difference

Community input and ownership is an integral part of coastal management.

Friends Of The Hooded Plover
BELLARINE

This group focusses on protection of the threatened Hooded Plover, a beach nesting bird of the Barwon coastline. This group works closely with BirdLife Australia and Barwon Coast during the Hooded Plover breeding season.

Friends of the Hooded Plover Bellarine used social media to maximise community involvement in the conservation protection of Hooded Plovers.

Regular updates with good news stories and photos following the birds from the nest to fledgling stage created great awareness of the birds vulnerability.

The commitment of this group in 2014 saw the first Hooded Plover chick fledge in over 20 years at 8W Collendina.

 Find us on Facebook

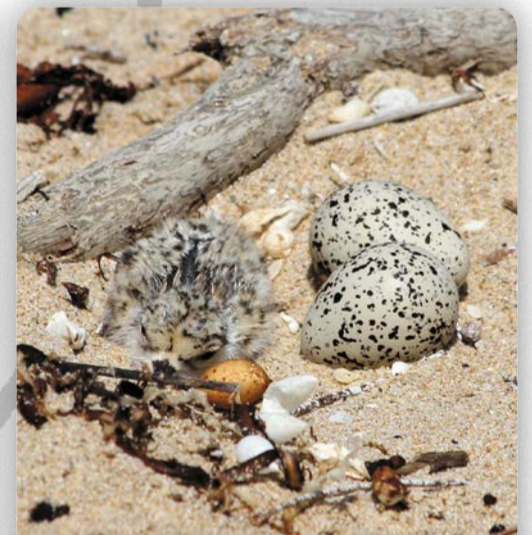

Research

Volunteering

Newly hatched chick

Chick and eggs

Adult birds

Adult and juvenile bird

